

One thing we miss from the before-times when our lives were less complicated, is what it felt like to be uplifted and inspired by a story. Now more than ever, we should read stories by people from diverse backgrounds and unique perspectives that challenge us to overcome life's obstacles. Luckily you have Literati, a subscription book club service that takes care of curating engaging books for you out of the million new releases each year.

Every month a hand-picked book is sent to your door by your luminary with a personal forward. This means awe inspiring luminaries like Richard Branson and Susan Orlean will become available to you through their book club discussions on your Literati app.

Insights and access like this are not available anywhere else.

Now you have the chance to get exclusive access to Malala's book club, Fearless, or Stephen Curry's book club, Underrated.

Literati gift subscriptions are available for 3, 6, or 12 months , just in time for the holiday season and perfect as a gift for your friend, family members, or even yourself.

Get the books that the world's most fascinating minds are reading, every month. And you can cancel anytime.

So go to LITERATI dot COM slash THEWEEDS to find your perfect book club and sign up today.